LeRotary Notes

Wednesday, November 26th, Rotary luncheon brought a low attendance. Members are probably trying to finish yard work and raking all those leaves. Our guests today were Kuc Majak, founder of the African Family Services Foundation, Tom Weise, a Board member of the Foundation (Phil's Dad) and Deb Davis from the Hollwedel Memorial Library in Pavilion.

Some dates for Rotarians to remember: Dec. 14th is the Cookie Auction with proceeds going to a non-profit organization. Dec. 21st Santa will arrive, so Rotarians bring your children or grandchildren for a visit with Santa. Rotarians will be ringing the Salvation Army Bell at Tops on Dec. 9. Area 14 Christmas Party is January 7th at Terry Hills.

There was no fining session today due to needing time for two informative programs.

However, various makeups were given by Kim Cox, Tony Gugino, Jerry McCullough, Marcia McKenzie, Phil Weise, and Jake Whiting. Many used the Appliance Raffle as a make-up.

A plaque and picture were presented to Rotary from the LeRoy Soccer Board for supporting their season this year. LeRoy Rotary is happy to sponsor youth sports.

Our first program today, was presented by Kuc Majak. After being with us last May, he brought Rotarians up to date on the progress of the school being built in South Sudan. This is a Vocational Institute for the Children of South Sudan. The School opened in Aug. of 2015 with 30 students. These children and teens had been living on the streets of South Sudan. They learned math and English, then would learn a carpentry trade and finally hopefully find a job. Funding is being raised to finish the class rooms and to build dormitories. Rotary presented Kuc with a check to help with the fundraising for this project. Visit vocicss.org to learn more about this great endeavor.

Deb Davis gave an overview of the Hollwedel Memorial Library. At the beginning this Library had only 1500 square feet. With State funding and a generous donation by the Hollwedel's, it now has a beautiful Children Room and many other extras. Deb commented that libraries are a valuable resource to their communities and offer many program for young people and Senior Citizens. Deb thanked Rotary for their donation to the library. With LeRoy Rotary having members from the Pavilion area, it was our pleasure to donate. Also, Rotary, thru the United Way Day of Caring worked on the landscaping at the library.

Thank you to Kuc and Deb for great programs.

Meatball Cookies and Shortbread

Tom MacPherson grew up in LeRoy in the 1960s. His mother was Lena O'Geen and his father was Mickey MacPherson, so Tom grew up in two distinct cultures - one that enjoyed Italian meatball cookies at Christmas and the other that savored Scottish Shortbread. Several years ago, Tom contacted the Historical Society, looking for genealogical information. He was embarking on a fascinating project. Tom is on the faculty at SUNY Geneseo and is an artist who paints with egg tempera. For quite a while he had focused on portraits of his family. These are not ordinary portraits, because they are filled with symbols and details that reflect the personality of the subject. As Tom learned about his family, he gathered stories and notes that he has crafted into a book: "Crossing Cultures: A Sicilian and American Family in Western New York." It is a very interesting story, even if you don't know the people.

"Christmas at Grandma's House - On Christmas Eve, Grandma would start cooking for the feast that followed Midnight Mass. She would make one of her famous-Sicilian-style pizzas that had a thick homemade crust, that was seasoned just right with a combination of oreganos, garlic, onions, cayenne pepper and her fabulous sweet tomato sauce topped with Romano cheese. There would be homemade pies, apple and pumpkin, plus all of the Italian cookies one could eat, and of course some Asti for toasts. Sometimes Aunt Ida from next door would send over a plate of breaded veal cutlet or her delectable cannolis with little bits of chocolate and almonds in the custard filling that everyone would fight over. But the treat of all treats was Great Uncle Tony Argana's Homemade Italian sausage, both sweet and hot. He would only make his special recipe sausage during the Christmas season, and he always sent Grandma her ration.... As soon as Mass was over, my cousin, my aunts, relatives and friends made their way to Grandma's house, where a fabulous feast would take place. When I got to be a teenager and really understood the value of good food, Christmas with all of its trappings was a real let down. The presents were nice, but Christmas Day couldn't hold a torch to the good cheer and feeling of goodwill that was felt in the house. By 2:00 a.m. the party would be winding down and the dishes would be finished. As people got old and others past on, the tradition was abandoned to the detriment of all. There was a feeling that the Christmas season just wasn't the same anymore, and it wasn't."

p.m. and 7 p.m. each day. Tom will be joining us on Sunday, December 4 for both performances and will be willing to sign copies of his book. He'll be sitting at the 1944 kitchen table playing cards with the other men, enjoying a little homemade wine and some of Aunt Mananna's Meatball Cookies. (The recipe is in Tom's book.) We also have some Italian fig cookies to share with folks on the tours.

If you are partial to Scottish shortbread, some of those treats will be available in the 1918 parlor where you will hear the story of Tom's Aunt, Kitty MacPherson, who served with the Queen Alexandra's Royal Nursing Corps and spent eighteen months with the British Expeditionary Forces in Belgium during World War I. An excerpt from Tom's book: "In retrospect, women like my great-aunt stepped out of their roles preordained by society that kept women as homemakers and second-class citizens. They blazed the trail for women to be considered in a wholly different light. Women had been nurses in previous wars. But they were never part of the military. This war was different. The military provided this avenue for them to break free of societal gender barriers. They were responsible for hundreds of patients and they saw the grim realities of war. Women were patriotic and were encouraged to be tough, and they broke the stereotype of a woman as a delicate mother or housewife."

"The Conversion of Great-Aunt Catherine", 2011 Egg tempera on panel by Thomas McPherson

This is a tribute to Kitty McPherson. The background is a Scottish landscape which represents her proud Highland heritage. The dove and hands represent, in Catholic iconography, the Holy Spirit and God the Father, and were borrowed from a Verrochio painting, entitled "The Baptism of Christ."

Tom's book is available at the Jell-O Gallery shop for $12. It will make a very good Christmas present. There will also be copies available at LeRoy House during the Candlelight tours on December 3 and 4 at 4

For tickets to the Candlelight tours, call 768-7433, or stop by the Jell-O Museum 10 to 4 Monday through Saturday and Sunday 1 -4. There are 40 tickets for each performance - $5 for adults $3.50 for students.
